Notes and Citations

'Harvard'-style system should be used in the main body of the text (author's name, date of publication, page and/or illustration). Some example:

- It might be a Transitional LH III B2-III C Early Type 1 deep bowl (Mountjoy 1997, 122, figs. 7.41, 42)
- The LM I material is discussed by Barber (2008) as it is closely akin to the LC I material

- The fabric and distinctive slip of one straight-sided alabastron suggest it belongs to a group assigned by NAA to Euboea (Mountjoy, Mommsen 2006, 117)

Please, note that:

- Authors with the same surname must be distinguished with author's initial;
- Two or more publications of the same author in the same year must be distinguished by using of 'a', 'b', etc. For instance: 2004a; 2004b
- Semicolon must be used to separate years of publication of the same author (Mountjoy 1997; 2008) and to separate citations by different authors (Mountjoy 1997; Kanta 1980)
- When citing works with more than three authors it is possible to use the form Mountjoy et al. 1978, but the names of all authors must be given in the relevant entry in the bibliography.

IMPORTANT: please, avoid footnotes as much as possible, especially if they are used for references alone.

Abbreviations and acknowledgements

Apart from those commonly used (ca., e.g., cf., et al., etc., n., nn., no., nos., fig., figg., figs., tav., tavv., pl., pls., pers. comm., ed., eds., vol., voll., vols.), abbreviations must be avoided as much as possible; abbreviations such as ibid., id., loc. cit., op. cit., must be avoided as well. Special abbreviations, such as those used for ancient authors and corpora, must be included by the author in a list at the end of the text before the bibliographical references. Acknowledgements and other information about the origin of the text must be included in a special paragraph (called Acknowledgements) at the end of the text and before the bibliographical references.

Italicisation

Foreign words and short quotations should be italicised. Likewise, ancient and technical words should be italicised according to the single disciplines.

Bibliographical references

All works must be listed at the end of the article in alphabetical order of author, and within this in chronological order of publication under the heading REFERENCES, Times New Roman, 11 pt. The list of bibliographical references must include only works quoted in the text.

Work with two or more authors must contain names separated by coma.

Courtois J.-C., Webb J.M. 1987, Les cylindres-sceaux d'Enkomi (Fouilles française 1957-1970), Paris.

Periodical and series abbreviations must follow American Journal of Archaeology (104, 2000, 3-24) and Orientalia (82, 2013, 1-4). In case of periodicals or series not included in the above mentioned journal, titles must not be abbreviated.

Titles of works should be given in the original language, either by the use of special scripts, such as Greek and Cyrillic, or in Roman script which makes use of diacriticals and unusual letter such as Turkish.

Titles of articles should normally use minimum capitalisation. In the case of foreign language titles the normal conventions for capitalisation in the language in question should be followed.

Ancient works should not be listed in the bibliographical references.
